The manufacturer has used one generator for the D400. The voltage amounts to 240 V. At the mains frequency, the D400 is at 50 Hz. In the construction of the tower, the manufacturer uses steel tube.

How to check the performance of a D400 wind turbine?

The D400 should perform in line with, or exceed, the values given in the output graph. When verifying system performance, it is important that wind speed measurements are taken at the same height as the turbine - do not rely on the wind speed reading of a masthead anemometer, it can be TWICE the speed of the wind at the turbine.
